There is an increasing demand for logistics services to accommodate growth in the personal care products industry.

WDSrx utilizes extensive resources and experience with pharmaceutical drug products to manage storage, handling, fulfillment, return and destruction of Personal Care Products including cosmetics and skincare for small and large manufacturers and distributors. Manufacturers and marketers of Personal Care Products are confident that, as a pharmaceutical 3PL warehouse, WDSrx will manage their inventory with the same attention as a prescription medication.

Logistics services for Personal Care Products must comply with strict guidelines and standards. All WDSrx warehouses are climate controlled, maintaining 15-25° Celsius temperature range at all times. This feature prevents melting or any other potential damage to sensitive cosmetics and skincare products. In addition, refrigerated areas are kept between 2-8° Celsius for products that require a cooler environment.

Kitting is another key service provided by the WDSrx team. Commonly seen during holidays and special promotions, product bundles are assembled with several pieces gathered in a single package. These components arrive from multiple vendors and are combined to create a completed kit, which is then shipped to its designated location safely and securely.

Re-labeling of Personal Care Products is done to meet the regulations of international markets and other purposes. Some places call for additional labels to be placed on every unit to provide supplemental information regarding the product. This varies on where the product is being sent and the appropriate precautions taken to meet the standard.

Fulfillment operations consist of completing e-commerce orders with carriers providing accurate, fast, low cost service with high reliability. WDSrx continuously monitors pricing from multiple services to maximize value for freight costs.

The goal of the Returns Department is to quickly process returned items because that directly affects profits. Returned items are received and handled according to client requirements.

When necessary, destruction of expired, short-dated or damaged products is managed by the WDSrx Reverse Logistics team. Items for destruction are delivered to a specific site following proper destruction protocols. Official documentation is filled out to ensure the destruction project goes according to plan.

WDSrx prides itself on its versatility to handle both pharmaceutical and non-pharmaceutical products such as cosmetics and skincare. By utilizing the strengths of each department involved, we are able to receive client merchandise and successfully fulfill orders quickly and correctly.
